Bonjour, Jean Guy,

So good to hear from you !! Thanks for the stuff on Cayce. And for the osteo texts.

I use your Counter-Strain daily in my practice. Thank You for sharing your expertise with us. (MY patients thank you too.)

Osteo-wise, I have gotten enamored with Barral's Nerve Manipulation. It requires precise anatomical knowledge, so that is good for pushing me to commit all the related structures and relationships to memory. It's more meaningful to me when I have a "where-to-put" and immediate use for the anatomy "bits". Don Hazen, an American Rolfer, Chiropractor, and student of Barall sent me a flyer about a course that he teaches, "The Neurology of Posture". Basically it is nerve manipulation as it applies to structure and Rolwing. The course was the same week end as my mother's 91st birthday. I couldn't attend both, so I got Barral & Croibier's "Manual Therapy for the Peripheral Nerves" which was just translated into English. And began "consuming" it. It is "quite a meal". I could be kept busy for quite a while digesting that tome ... AND THEN ... along comes the second book, "Manual Therapy for the Cranial Nerves". Fascinating Material !!

Kyoko, my partner, is finishing up a 10 day hike in the Sierras with the "Hawaii group". She returns on the 10:45pm flight from Reno tomorrow night. I'd better get going on my paper work, so I can spend time with her.

Thanks Again
Misha Noonan
